Radiator, hood, cowl, lower roof line, fenders, wheels—every point of design reflects the new style and beauty that have been placed within the means of every one. All of the new Ford cars are finished in a variety of colors.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD

THE introduction of the new Ford bodies has set a high standard of motor car value.

From the new deep radiator to the tip of the curving rear fender, there is an unbroken sweep of line—a flowing grace of contour gaining added charm from the rich and attractive colors.

You will take a real pride in the smart style and fresh new beauty of the Ford just as you will find an ever-growing satisfaction in its safety, comfort, speed, acceleration, ease of control, reliability and economy. In appearance, as in mechanical construction, craftsmanship has been put into mass production.

New beauty has been added to outstanding performance.

A feature of unusual interest is the use of Rustless Steel for the radiator shell, head lamps, cowl finish strip, hub caps, tail lamp and other exposed metal parts. WELCHVILLE TRAFFIC CENSUS

C. H. Brett of Welchville, who has been highway patrolman since 1919, with the exception of 1924-25, submits a record of traffic through Welchville, taken by Miss Elizabeth Hammarford from Aug. 29 to Sept. 4, 1929. Probably the figures are a fair average for the motor season over a busy link connecting Norway and Paris with Lewiston and Portland.

Aug. Trucks Pass. Cars Buses H. D. Vehicles
30-112 1,170 2 10
Sept. 1-146 2,111 2 10

Total motor vehicles for the period, 12,475.
A count taken by Miss Lilyrose Daniels for Mr. Brett in 1929 covered the first seven days in September, from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. Totals are as follows: trucks 809, passenger cars 9,123; horse-drawn vehicles, 143.

Miss Daniels in 1927 counted for the week, Sept. 1-8, with the following result: trucks, 952; passenger cars, 10,189; buses, 6; horse-drawn vehicles, 121. The record for 1928 in the same period Sept. 1-7, from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. follows: trucks, 858; passenger cars, 8,527; horse-drawn vehicles, 133.

Miss Doris Ramsdell was the observer in 1925 from Aug. 24 to Aug. 30, and submitted a report as follows: autos, $1,190; teams, 146.

Record of passing autos for other years for the same period is as follows:
Number of cars in 1923.....7,993
Number of cars in 1922.....6,171
Number of cars in 1921.....5,234

As trucks were not in common use and passenger buses rarely seen here during the period 1919-29, the car record probably represents these on the road.

During ten years, the motor traffic increased in the seven-day period from 2,254 to 12,475. Horse-drawn vehicles have decreased rapidly in number and importance. The first count to include wagons was in 1925 when 146 were recorded. This dwindled to 133 in 1926, then shrunk to 121 in 1927, but staged a comeback to 143 in 1928. The worst yet was in 1929 when everybody motorized and teams went to 68.

HEALTHFUL WINTER

The opinion of an eminent physician concerning the healthfulness of winter weather is considerably bolstered by all those interested in good, bad and indifferent health. And who is not?

Except for the smoke products that are belched from the chimneys, and which sometimes hover over whole communities like fogs, winter weather is cleaner than that which humanity breathes at any other time of the year. For this condition two climatic factors are responsible.

Perhaps the most important of the two is the circumpolar latitudes, it comes from a region uncontaminated with smoke and soot and other corruptions of civilization. It comes from high altitudes as well as from high latitudes. As it rolls down from wilderness, it gives that part of Mother Earth over which it spreads a thorough cleansing.

The meteorologist, who declared it to be the greatest asset of health that large areas of the United States receive, and not exaggerate its importance. Humanity does not breathe cleaner and more health-giving air; incidentally, there is no such thing as pure air in the natural state.

The second factor for insuring the healthful conditions of winter is the snowstorm. Snow combs the dust and other impurities from the air even more effectively than does a shower of rain. Moreover, it seals decaying organic matter on the ground, and when the ground is blanketed with snow there is no dust being stirred up for people to breathe.

Winter climate indoors, however, is quite another thing. With so much purer and healthier air outdoors, why do so many people endanger their health by hibernating with the first cold blast?

MAINE WEATHER

W. Gerald Holmes, industrial engineer for the New England Public Service Company, makes a very good point when he claims that Maine winters have an undeserved reputation for severity. They have, indeed, long been the pride of Maine people who have been fond of citing them at their more than worst as proof of the unusual stamur and virility of those who can not only tolerate but love them. For actually many natives do love the Winters. As Mr. Holmes says, the most favored thermometers have long been those that could go lower than the neighbors', no matter how.

Maine people, in short, have fairly glided in Arctic temperatures and deep snows and never tired of boosting and boasting them. In a State so largely devoted to lumbering and farming this has gone along as usual. Given, however, when Maine is turning more to manufacturing this unearned reputation and unwarranted attitude is causing serious trouble. They have made it altogether too easy for outsiders to believe that if they come here they must end up like bears for several months of the year and so they turn to more favorable winter prospects.

Most Maine people going to other sections where Winters are not considered so severe have been astonished at the amount of suffering they have seen and have been forced to endure themselves. They have found that the cold is not so much a matter of fact, every section has its bad season and that of Maine, which comes in Winter, is no worse and no longer but mostly more tolerable and shorter than in other sections of the Country. As Mr. Holmes has pointed out, the records that cause the most boasting are made by only a few days. Maine Summers are so altogether delightful that much fall and winter weather is only by comparison with that. Because we have some of the best weather in the world we think we must also have some of the worst, which does not follow at all.

There are very few days now when automobiles cannot be used anywhere in the State with only reasonably reduced efficiency over Summer which is proof enough that Winter is no serious handicap on either modern business or pleasure. —Press Herald.

BARBER'S BOARD

The movement for creation by the Maine Legislature of a Board of Barber Examiners will be continued at the next regular session of the Legislature. John J. Riley headed the movement for the bill on the part of the barbers of Maine and it was brought before the last session of the Legislature.

While admitting that the sanitary regulations promulgated by the Maine Public Health Council for barber shops and barbers are well in step in the right direction, Riley said that the health regulations were but a part of what was needed.

"The creation of a Board of Barber Examiners and the enactment of statutes governing the practice of barbering, together with many other details of the bill are quite as necessary as they were in the State with only reasonably reduced efficiency over Summer which is proof enough that Winter is no serious handicap on either modern business or pleasure. —Press Herald.

COLBY COLLEGE NOTES

Colby broke the triple tie in the State Hockey Series, and gained a substantial lead for itself, Monday evening, by defeating Bowdoin, 5 to 4. The sensation of the game, which was played in Waterville, was the goal made by Delaware, assisted in the last minute of play.

The Women's Dramatic Club of Colby held its first regular meeting, recently. Professor Edward Joseph Colgan, M. A., spoke to the group on the subject, "Dramatics in the Secondary Schools." Speaking to the members who intend to become teachers, he said, "You are going to meet teachers, and you will need sympathy, knowledge, and insight. You must be a rebel against mediocrity."

Otto Arvid Havu, Colby, '30, of Oxford, is a member of the Colby Glee Club, which will make a concert tour through Massachusetts during the Easter recess. All the members are working faithfully to make their concert a success.

The Waterville Alumnae Association of Colby College gave a tea dance and bridge party, recently, for the purpose of raising money with which to enlarge the stage in the Alumnae Building. The entertainment was very successful, both from the point of view of entertainment, and money-raising.

Barbara Valentine Works, Colby, '32, of Bethel, attended a recent meeting of the Phi Sigma Iota Society, a national wide romance language society which recently installed a chapter at Colby.

Edward G. Roundy, head coach at Colby, has signed a contract to remain at Colby next year.

Judge Benjamin Cleaves of Portland spoke in men's chapel last week. He took for a subject, "Business as a Vocation." He stressed the need of an adequate foundation.

DEER BEING SLAUGHTERED BY BOBCATS AND LYNX

A report of great slaughter of deer by bobcats and Canadian lynx in the woods near the west branch of the Penobscot River was contained in a letter to the State game commissioner from Charles E. MacDonald of Sherman, registered guide and trapper.

"There seem to be more cats than ever before," MacDonald wrote, "and at no time did I follow a track more than a mile without finding one or more deer killed. The cat is a ruthless killer and kills for the love of it."

MacDonald said that fawns are seldom seen in that country now, because cats get them in the summer or early winter. In his opinion, every cat kills at least six deer a year, and some of them many more.

"Cats are very difficult animals to trap and the present bounty on them is not inducement enough for the trapper to put in his time trying to catch them. Under present conditions, the cats are on the increase and something must be done if we want to save our deer."

Archer L. Grover, deputy game commissioner, said that a bounty of $10 each had been paid by the State on 723 cats in 1929. This meant, he said, that approximately 4,338 deer had been saved, according to MacDonald's estimate that each cat kills six deer per year.

It was not announced whether the commissioner would consider raising the cat bounty.

Norway Medicine Co.

The River Ed. was among those present at the joint installation of the Knights of Pythias and the Sisterhood at K. of P. Hall, Friday evening. A bonfire supper was laid, for the members, their families and friends, who thoroughly enjoyed the ceremony of installation and the pleasing program of entertainment which had been provided by the Sisters.

The River Ed. and party chose one of the center tables at supper time. This proved to be a strategic move. When the choice viands rapidly disappeared from their table, foragers were sent out in line of skirmish, who under the guise of good fellowship would "snitch" some choice delicacy from an adjoining table. Next to say, the River Ed. did not approve of nor sanction these actions, neither did he wish a scene to occur, thus he was compelled to devour these tidbits as quickly as possible, in order that the culprits might escape the censure that they so richly would have deserved, had they been caught with the goods. And right here I would say, that the Society for the Prevention of Cupidity to Cookery Products, should take some action against Elvin and P. P. Rillon. There was one delectable cake at the editor's table, whose cream had been duly and properly whipped, but these unfeeling brothers proceeded to punish it still further, until the delicate thing collapsed entirely and disappeared into nothingness.

The program continued after the ed. was helped upstairs. The ceremony of installation was carried out in a very creditable manner, by both branches of the order. These ceremonies were followed by musical numbers which were very well received, and a very amusing reading by Mrs. Harriman, which was vigorously applauded.

The River Ed., who had felt "some Punkies," because he had been asked to speak, began to feel "some punk" at the time for his act rapidly approached. However, he decided to buckle on his armor, like a true knight, and face the music, but when the time arrived, all he could get to buckle was his knicker. We know now that the River Ed. should have been a ventriloquist; his fame would have been lasting, for, for some unknown reason, his usually well modulated voice, each and every time he starts to recite, will descend into his boots, or seem to come faintly from down cellar somewhere.

However, he galloped bravely through his lines, accompanied by a galloping heart and a school-girl complexion; and when, after untold ages, he reached the climax of his masterpiece, with the ringing lines: "And I'm glad, same as you, that the darn thing is ended," the applause (note to publisher. Please don't print this "apple-sauce" for apples!) was truly thunderous. The River Ed. was visibly affected by this tribute, and edged off the stage gingerly and fearfully, if not gracefully, and resumed his seat, after nearly sitting in a sister's lap, which he had subconsciously mistaken for his rightful place.

When a sister asked me to help out the "com-mite," Perhaps, friends, she thought that I'd sing a "wee ditty" or dance just a bit, or declaim an oration. Without being used, or without hesitation: To tell the truth, friends, just once on the stage.

To tell a song, I thought I'd be the rage. But alas, that lone time I was egged on to sing. I got plenty of eggs to last our folks 'till spring. I might dance a jig or two, but say, When I try that, my feet get in the way. If I should try a speech, I guess you'd wonder, No I won't try and steal Bill Wilkins' dinner.

But perhaps you'll all forgive me at this time. If I make my few remarks in simple rhyme. Now at this party of the Sisterhood, My remarks, of course, I'd like to have sound good.

But when I want 'em good, I must confess That just as like as not, they'll be a mess. There's one thing when a yarn I try to spin, I don't know where to stop, or where to begin. If I read backwards, p-r-a-p's 'twould make more sense. Than reading from the place I should choose. But now I've got a chance to toot my horn. So I'll just ramble on, and on, and on.

First off I'll thank the sisters for the feed, That kept even my heart as you indeed. I know the man was right who said, by rum, That the road to a man's heart lies through "his tummy."

I dissent tell this tman he 'don't know beans." Most any kind of beans will answer well. But he likes best, the kind that's baked by Belle.

Spauldings Given Shower.—Grange Installation—Past Grand—Entertained—Celebrated Eightieth Birthday—Walker-Grover Marriage.

On Monday evening, at Woodland Hall, a surprise reception shower was given to Mr. and Mrs. Phil Spaulding by their many friends in this vicinity. The event was well planned and a complete surprise to the couple, who were married the week before. They were the recipients of many gifts and sums of money, tokens of love and friendship. There was a short entertainment.

The Grange Club met on Wednesday evening with Mrs. O. C. Robbins. Work was done on the dresses which are being made for missionary purposes. Plans were also made for the Progressive supper to be held this week.

On Wednesday evening the Past Grands of Woodland Rebekah Lodge entertained the Past Grands of Harrison Lodge, I. O. O. F., at a banquet in Woodland Hall. The husbands and all wives of all Past Grands were present and a delightful evening passed. The banquet was served by candle light and supper partners were chosen by number, causing much merriment. Two of the Past Grands, Mrs. Abbie Furlington and Mrs. William P. Smith were greatly surprised when they found that birthday honors were being extended to them. They cut a delicious birthday cake, made by Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Lamb, and as usual, a work of guests. They also received several gifts.

From the Past Grands of both lodges as a token of love and esteem for both Mrs. Furlington and Mrs. Smith, who have been faithful members and assistants in the lodge. An entertainment followed, consisting of:

NORTH BRIDGTON

Bridgton Academy

Bridgton Academy has scheduled a relay track meet with Andover Academy to be held at Andover, Mass., on this next Saturday, February 1st. This will be the first time that these two schools have ever met in competition and the Bridgton boys are sure to meet the stiffest competition of the year as Coach Ray Shepard of Andover can always be counted upon having about the finest track in the state. This makes the Bridgton schedule one of the longest and hardest to be faced by any Maine Prep School, with three dual meets, three relay carnivals and two interscholastic meets. A few years ago Bridgton was at the top in track, that being one of the greatest sports at the school, but during the past few years it has been on the wane and every endeavor is being made to bring back this branch of sport. For five years in succession Bridgton held the Maine Championship in relay and three years ago made a fine record at the Penn Relays.

This fall the board track was enlarged so that the boys now have a 75 yard straightaway and a large squad of boys are reporting each night for this sport. Under the guidance of Coach Potter, former Colby relay and distance runner, with the assistance of John Lievoen, former Finnish trainer and runner, and who for two years trained the world famous Nurni, the Bridgton cohorts are getting some hard work and a vast experience.

The relay team has already made one trip to Boston, where they lost to the Northeastern Freshmen at the Y. M. C. A. meet, and this week they are running in the Prep School classic at the K. of C. games, when they run a fourcornered race with Newburg Prep, Huntington School and Worcester Academy.

S. S.—V. F. Fyler.
S. G.—B. S. Collins.
Tyler—G. L. Hilton.

How G. B. Lane of Berlin, N. H. became an interested reader of the Advertiser. He says: "I still enjoy the Advertiser $2.00 worth every year, wonder if I ever told you how I became a subscriber to a paper I had never seen or knew of. I had known for many years that Norway was the home of C. A. Stephens, whose stories I have read since the early 70's, and still read with as much interest as ever. Well, I subscribed, hoping to get an item regarding Dr. Stephens occasionally. It wasn't long before I became interested in lots of things in the paper, Fishing Yarns, C. F. Whitman's writings, Heard and Seen at Advertiser Office, Tamarack Talks, the Weary Club, and lots of other good things."
